2021-22 Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) Appeal

Students must maintain satisfactory academic progress to remain eligible for financial aid. Regulations require that we measure progress by: (1) cumulative grade point average (GPA), (2) the cumulative number of credits attempted compared to credits earned (pace of degree completion), and (3) the total number of credits attempted overall (maximum timeframe). This includes all coursework taken for a specific academic level (undergraduate or graduate), even ones that have been removed due to academic/medical relief or resignation.

Undergraduate students must have a cumulative GPA of 2.0, earn 67% of cumulative credits attempted, and not exceed 150% of the published length of the educational program measured in credits attempted. Withdrawals, resignations, and/or classes dropped after the census date count in this calculation.

Graduate students must have a cumulative GPA of 3.0, earn 67% of cumulative credits attempted, and not exceed 150% of the published length of the educational program measured in credits attempted. Withdrawals, resignations, and/or classes dropped after the census date count in this calculation.

If you do not meet any of the requirements listed above, you must appeal and be approved to regain eligibility for financial aid. To appeal, please follow the instructions below.
