Employer Designations

- On-Campus – Any other department or organization on Virginia Tech’s campus. On-campus departments and organizations receive a FWS wage split of 75% federal share/25% non-federal share; USFA will cover 75% of the wages for a FWS student working for an on-campus agency.
- Community Service - An agency where services are designed to improve the quality of life for community residents or to solve problems related to those residents’ needs. “Community” is not defined as the Virginia Tech community, but the greater community of Blacksburg, Montgomery County, the surrounding localities, and/or New River Valley. This designation receives a FWS wage split of 80% federal share/20% non-federal share; USFA will cover 80% of the wages for a FWS student working in a community service position.

Student Employee Eligibility Requirements

Federal Work-Study (FWS) eligibility is determined by University Scholarships and Financial Aid (USFA). Here is a list of general requirements for students:

- File a relevant FAFSA.
- Have sufficient remaining need. Students are not permitted to work as a Federal Work-Study employee if allocated funds run out. If funds run out, the Federal Work-Study position ends and employers may offer to hire the student and pay 100% remaining wages for the remainder of the academic year. Federal Work-Study student employees can earn up to $6000 per year (this amount is for fall and spring combined). Enroll in at least six credits each semester in a degree-seeking program (students can only work during the fall and spring semesters).
- 2024-2025 FWS award amounts are as follows:
 - First-time FWS recipients: $5,000 maximum award (for the year).
 - Returning FWS recipients: $6,000 maximum award (for the year).
- Meet Satisfactory Academic Progress.
- Apply for position(s) through Handshake.
- Complete Onboarding through the Virginia Tech Human Resources New Hire Center. Human Resources will send a link to employee via e-mail.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)

FERPA is a federal law designed to protect the privacy of a student's educational records. The notice is also printed on the Registrar's webpage at <https://www.registrar.vt.edu/FERPA.html>. Students will be asked to sign a FERPA Release each year so that we can discuss remaining account funds with employers.

General Responsibilities of Employers

- Meet with USFA staff during FWS walk-in hours (walk-in hours are every Thursday 9am-10am) to discuss any questions you may have about the FWS process.
- Determine and create a job description for each student position in Handshake.
- Discuss budget limitations with student employees. Minimum wage cannot be less than $12 per hour as of August 2024; this amount increases to $13.50 per hour in January 2025. Federal Work-Study student employees can earn up to $6,000 per year (these amounts are for fall and spring combined); awards vary per student. If students run out of funds, their position will be terminated, and employers have the option to rehire the student and pay 100% of their salary. It is important to be mindful of this while determining their work schedules or else you may have to complete a labor redistribution if the student works over their allocated award.
- Interview and select student applicants for positions.
- E-mail USFA (contact information is provided on page 3) and include the selected student name(s), email address(es), and phone number(s) so that the position(s) can be approved.
- Do not permit students to begin working until all positions are approved by USFA and the student completes on-boarding.
- Remove or inactivate job postings in Handshake when positions are filled.
- Review the position description with the student employee on the student's first date of work.
- After class schedules have been finalized, establish a compatible work schedule for each student. Once again, please be mindful that Federal Work-Study student employees can earn up to $6,000 per year (this amount is for fall and spring combined); the award amount can vary per student. Once students exhaust funds, their position will be terminated, and employers have the option to hire them and pay 100% of their salary.
- On the first day of work, coordinate a group/individual orientation session with all students to establish the nature of the students' duties, expectations concerning punctuality, dress code, confidentiality of assigned work (if applicable), emergency procedures, training and compliance with time-keeping regulations, and other general responsibilities.
- Ensure detailed timesheets are approved on time each pay period (generally on the 15th and final day of each month).
- Ensure that Retroactive Pay Forms are submitted if time worked is reported late.
- E-mail USFA regarding any student who has resigned from work. E-mails should be sent to ewaybrig@vt.edu.
- Ensure that students are working on their assigned tasks.
- Provide the students with feedback on their performance in a timely manner.

Employer Onboarding and Student Hiring Procedures

Request Program Participation and Attend Employer Onboarding

On-campus employers may reach out to USFA if interested in Federal Work-Study (FWS) participation. USFA will determine eligibility and whether an on-campus employer will be designated as Community Service (see Employer Eligibility Requirements) during an Onboarding meeting. To contact USFA and make requests, please email ewaybrig@vt.edu.

Attend Onboarding

Employers may set up an Onboarding meeting by emailing ewaybrig@vt.edu. USFA will review general information such as designation, responsibilities, expectations, Banner set-up, etc.

Post Position(s)

Employers will create an account and post positions in Handshake. A Handshake Quick Guide can be found here: <https://career.vt.edu/for-employers/post-jobs.html>. Employers should always request that a position be a Federal Work-Study (FWS) position and state “must have Federal Work-Study (FWS)” in Job Qualifications section. Employers will also need to check the “Work-Study” box in order for only FWS-eligible students to see the job posting.

A current and accurate job description is required for each student job. The job description should be maintained in office files and include the following:

- Job title.
- Name and address of student’s employer.
- Location where the student will perform their duties.
- Name of the student’s supervisor(s).
- Duties and responsibilities associated with the position and how they relate to the purpose/role.
- Relevant major that pairs with the position.
- Rate of pay for the position*.
- Work schedule.
- Projected Employment Start Date.
- Projected Employment End Date.

*Student wage rate depends upon several factors including what specific skills are needed to perform the job. FWS students may not be paid more or less than other student employees because they are FWS students (Virginia Minimum Wage is $12.00 per hour; current average pay rate at Virginia Tech is $15.00 per hour).

Review Applications

Log into Handshake and review applications and other requested documents, such as resumes, cover letters, etc. thoroughly for each applicant. Compare their skills, talents and experience to the job description created for the position. Select the best applicants that meet your needs to interview.

Interviewing and Reference Checks

Employers will interview applicants and perform reference checks. When planning for interviews, all applicants should be asked the same set of questions to ensure fairness and accuracy in the selection process. References should be checked, and interview comments recorded. Human Resources has a webpage dedicated to offering interview suggestions. Found Here: <https://www.hr.vt.edu/hiring-employee-transactions/hire/resources/interview-types.html>.

Submit Hire Selection to University Scholarships and Financial Aid and Await Approval
Email ewaybrig@vt.edu once a hiring decision is made so that University Scholarships and Financial Aid (USFA) can approve the position in Banner.

Offer Position(s)

Contact the student(s) you have selected to work in your office first and get confirmation that they accept the position you are offering. We recommend contacting the other candidate(s) you interviewed to let them know of the decision.

Termination Procedures

All Federal Work-Study students are instructed to give two weeks' notice while reviewing our Code of Conduct. We understand that some students may not adhere to this guideline. Upon resignation of a Federal Work-Study Student, email University Scholarships and Financial Aid (contact information is provided on page 3) and obtain any supplies/equipment, etc. issued to them. Employers should not immediately terminate students and should email ewaybrig@vt.edu if there are disciplinary concerns, so that we can first try to work with the student to correct any issues. More information pertaining to disciplinary concerns can be found under Disciplinary Actions and Procedures.

Work Schedule Guidelines

Permittable Work Hours

Federal Work-Study students are eligible to work up to 20 hours per week during the fall and spring semesters only. Federal Work-Study student employees can earn up to $6,000 per year (this amount is for fall and spring combined). Students are not permitted to work during winter break or summer semester. Students employed as Federal Work-Study cannot begin work until the first day of each semester and cannot work past the last day (final exam day) of each semester. Student employees should be working at least once every 30 days or Timeclock access will be turned off.

Semester Start/End Dates

Students employed as Federal Work-Study cannot begin work for until a specified date and cannot work past the last day (final exam day) of each semester. Please see the supervisor checklist for more details.

Breaks

Students cannot work more than six hours unless they take an unpaid 30-minute break. They must clock in and out for their 30-minute break. If they take a break, for any reason, they must clock in and out via Timeclock.

Class Time

Federal Work-Study students cannot work during class time. Should they work during class, they will not be paid during that time.

University Closings

Holidays

Students should not work on the following times/holidays:

- Martin Luther King Jr. Day
- During any point of summer break. Summer break starts May 15 in 2025.
- Labor Day
- Thanksgiving (they can work during Thanksgiving break, just not on Thanksgiving Day).
- During any point of winter break (December 19, 2024-January 1, 2025).

Inclement Weather

Unless a student has a remote position, Federal Work-Study students should not work if the university closes due to inclement weather. Furthermore, students should not be working during delayed or early closings. Announcements are made on the University Status page.

Reporting and Approving Time Worked

Students will report time worked in Timeclock Plus and should enter time as they work. In other words, they should enter Time In immediately when arriving at work or coming off any breaks and Time Out when entering breaks or before leaving work. Employers will be responsible for approving time worked at the end of each day. Unapproved time will require a Retroactive Pay Form if the pay period has already ended. Controller's Office has a webpage dedicated to Training Tutorials. Student employees must be paid for all hours worked and cannot volunteer their services.

Pay Schedules

Controller's Office will post Pay Schedules (<https://www.controller.vt.edu/resources/payroll.html>) to a dedicated Payroll webpage. Students can reference Pay Schedules to determine when they will be paid, and employers can reference Pay Schedules to determine when time worked is due to be approved or if a Retroactive Pay Form must be submitted. If assistance is needed, employers may email University Scholarships and Financial Aid.

Political Campaigning and Religious Activities

Federal Work-Study student employees cannot be involved in political campaigns. Furthermore, they cannot be involved in the construction, operating, or maintenance of any part of a building that is used for religious worship.

Labor Redistributions

If a supervisor allows a student to earn over their FWS award, a labor redistribution will need to be initiated by the employing department/organization. It is important for a supervisor to keep track of hours worked by a student so that the student does not exceed their FWS award. If the student's paid amount is more than their FWS award, a labor redistribution must be completed, and the employer must cover 100% of the overage. More information about labor redistributions can be found on the Controller's website here: <https://www.controller.vt.edu/resources/payroll/laborredistributions.html>

Disciplinary Action and Procedures

Federal Work-Study students can be dismissed or terminated from a FWS job just like any other type of employee. If the student is not meeting their responsibilities, behaving inappropriately, or having attendance issues or other troubles, a verbal warning is first recommended. The next step is a written warning to the student, then termination. Please email ewaybrig@vt.edu if any issues arise so that we can work together for resolution.

Accident Reporting and Safety in the Workplace

In the event of an emergency, Federal Work-Study Students should immediately call 911. Employers are responsible for reviewing their emergency procedures on the student's first day of work. If an accident occurs, please email ewaybrig@vt.edu so that our office can initiate a claim.

Title IX Incidents (Sexual Harassment and Violence)

All employees that work for Virginia Tech's University Scholarship and Financial Aid (USFA) Office are required to report any known incidents that fall under Title IX to Virginia Tech's Title IX Office. This means that if incidents are discussed with USFA staff, regardless of if a student or employer contacts our office and no matter where an incident takes place, incidents will be reported. There are no exceptions.

If a student reports that they have experienced sexual harassment and/or violence, here are some resources that are available:

Disability and Reasonable Accommodations

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) prohibits employees with disabilities from being discriminated against. An employee with a disability is defined as a person who has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life; has a record of such an impairment; or is regarded as having such an impairment. If an employee qualifies as disabled as defined by the ADA, the employee is entitled to a reasonable accommodation to facilitate employment, so as long as they can perform the essential functions of the job that they are being hired to do. To initiate a collaboration, please email ewaybrig@vt.edu so that our office can reach out to Office for Equity and Accessibility.

Tips to Ensure Federal Work-Study Student Success

Communicate and set clear expectations. Communicate the job standards, responsibility, and expectations to your student employees clearly, precisely and on day one of their job.

Explain the mission and purpose of your site. Relate the student's responsibilities with the mission, purpose and/or goals of the organization.

Share goals and vision. Invite student employees to regular staff meetings and allow for input. Encourage them to become part of the team.

Supervise. Specify who the student should report to for daily tasks/assignments or priority projects.

Emphasize attendance and punctuality. Be sure to specify how many times can a student be absent or tardy without jeopardizing their position.

Train, train, train. Take time to train students in other skills other than what is specifically listed in their job description such as time management, phone skills, quality customer service skills, general work habits and most certainly how to deal with difficult situations.

Address physical appearance. Review the workplace dress code.

Reinforce positive attitude. Discuss attitude expectations and how to handle stressful situations.

Maintain confidentiality. Specify if the student has access to confidential information. Explain the confidentiality policy pertaining to how the information should be handled.

Educate. Determine how you and your organization can contribute to the education of your student.

Provide recognition. Acknowledge student's accomplishments whether privately or in front of peers or staff.

Be fair and consistent. Do not be too lenient. Campus jobs are substantive work experiences. Treat student employees as you would any other employees in a given situation.

Provide plenty of feedback. Provide consistent and appropriate feedback to student employees on a regular basis and provide it with a positive spirit when possible.

Be flexible. It is important to be flexible to accommodate their academic obligations.

Be an example. Remember they will watch and listen, so your daily approach to work will be a perfect example from which student employees can learn and model.
